“Come in and

“Come in and stay awhile,” we think, is an appropriate theme for this, our 1958 Quilna. This expression is typical of the 594 Shawnee Senior High School students who are scattered through the pages of this annual.

We want you to come and see us. We want you to watch us gather in the hallways in the morning, rush to our classes, gulp down our lunch, head back to class or to a special activity. We invite you to the athletic games—to encourage our teams, but, most of all, we want you to see Shawnee High School and the many, growing, active students who make Shawnee what it is.

Why do we want you to come and see us? School visitation strengthens the understanding between the home and the school and between the school and the community. When parents follow their son or daughter through a day at school, the everyday problems of that student are Page Two more easily understood.

“Come in and stay awhile.” We have a lot to show you. You’ll see the geniuses in math classes and the tradesmen of tomorrow in the industrial arts shop. You’ll see 594 happy, clear-thinking, wonderful personalities who take a great variety of subjects taught by 27 capable faculty members. You’ll see why your kid comes home from school—sad, or gay—angry, or genial—boasting, or demoralized. Each year Shawnee has several days set aside for school visitation, and, although special tours will be provided at that time, you are welcome, at any time, to visit—whether you stop for five minutes or for the entire day.

In the pages following this introduction is a brief summary of the places, situations, and faces that you will come in contact with, if—YOU—“Come in and stay awhile.”

C. G. LAPPIN
Superintendent
Oberlin College, B.A.
Ohio State University, M.A.

As we stop for a few moments to meditate on the educational picture, we see the latest agitation is to go all out for science and mathematics. We would, of course, like to improve and enlarge our science and math program. It is proper that we do so with the rapid pace being set by industry and research. There is great danger, however, that other phases of education may suffer as the result of this latest agitation. We need also to strengthen our courses in citizenship, government, and English. Great advances made in scientific appliances call for better knowledge of how to use more leisure time and how to live with other people.

We need not be too much upset by the sensational claims of some other peoples when we can reflect that we, as educators, have had a part in the building of the highest standard of living ever existing in the world; that we have no slaves and slave labor camps; that everyone has a real vote and voice in the government, and not a sham dictated vote controlled by fear. We trust our high school will help to maintain a fine educational balance between "making" a living and "living" a living.

O. C. KNECHT
Assistant Superintendent
Bowling Green State University, B.S.
Indiana University, M.S.

KENNETH LUSK
Principal
Ohio Northern University, B.S.
Indiana University, M.S.

Mr. Knecht, who was advanced to assistant superintendent, transfers the key of the Shawnee High building to Mr. Lusk, who replaced him as principal during the 1957-1958 school term.

Visit the English classes . .

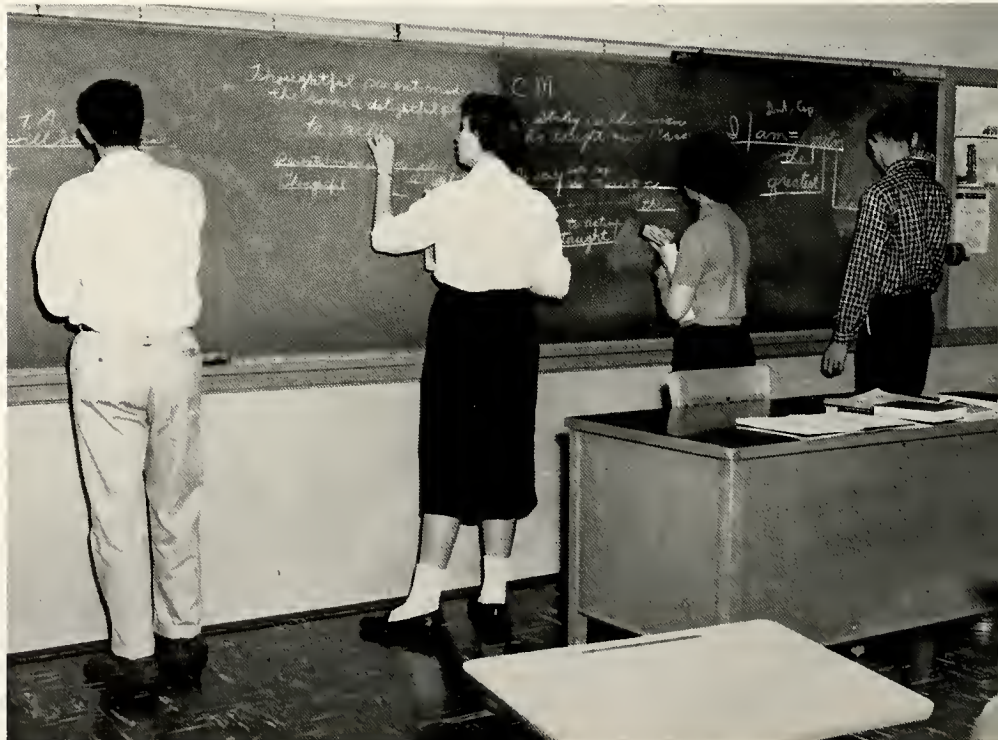

Study of literature requires close attention from the class. These junior English students follow attentively as Mrs. Bowers reads aloud.

Grammar and literature—expressing one's thoughts orally and in writing—learning sentence structure and memorizing poetry—all are dealt with in the extensive English courses required at Shawnee.

In the literature field, a graduate of S.H.S. will have studied Julius Caesar, Macbeth, She Stoops to Conquer, Treasure Island, and poetry of all the great masters.

Spelling, sentence form, word meaning, diagraming, and punctuation are a few of the items in grammar study.

Russell Sneary, Martha Eley, Carolyn McKissick, and Jim Baber draw sentence "diagrams" to show word relationships.

and watch us ponder over mathematics

"What does X equal?" asks Mr. Roeder as he demonstrates this system of equations before an advanced mathematics class.

From elementary arithmetic to advanced algebra, solid geometry, and trigonometry, the mathematics department tutors many future engineers, scientists, and teachers.

These courses are open to anyone who has aspirations in the math field or cares to participate for the mere pleasure of solving problems.

Eddie Shinabery and Mary Mitchell, geometry students, exhibit their required projects.

Hands and mind ... in the industrial arts shop

Tom McKinney and Bob Shellenbarger make use of the new car lift—a labor saving device in the mechanical department of the shop.

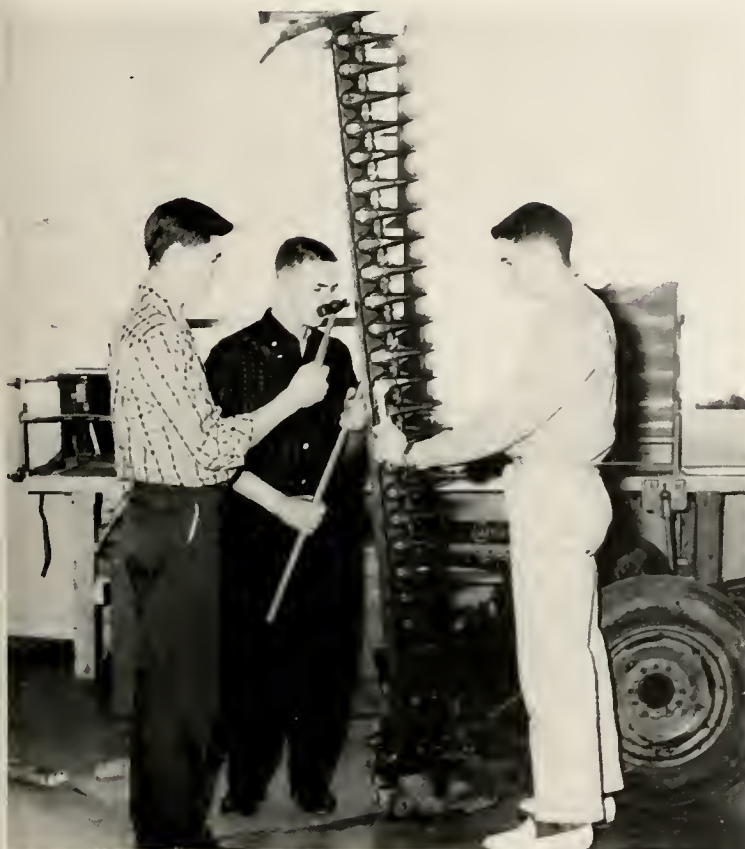

For any vocational student, the industrial arts shop is a “dreamhouse.” The best up-to-date machinery enables students to construct projects which reflect the creator’s pride and ingenuity.

Wood and metal lathes, a shaper, grinders, a planer, a jointer, and electric saws are but a few of the machines in the shop.

A fully equipped photography laboratory is a division of the shop which is superb.

Behind the safety glass in his shield, Jim Klinefelter gains a few pointers on the art of arc welding. Harold Hendrickson is ably demonstrating. Arc and oxyacetylene welding, and metal cutting are only a few of the instructions which prepare these students for industry.

Working together ...in the vocational agriculture department

Repairing the cutter bar of this mower requires the workmanship of Ronald Schooler, Roger Crites, and Jim Phillips—vo. ag. students.

In addition to classroom instruction, Shawnee vocational agriculture followers gain practical out-of-door experience by the cultivation and sowing of plots of ground.

Learning the operation of farm machinery, the principles of farm management, and modern farming methods is the objective of the farmers of the future.

Competition, in the animal husbandry field, is a result of the Allen County Fair, where the vo. ag. boys enter their livestock to be judged.

Foreign languages develop culture

Mrs. Shackelford, Latin instructor, assists Jerry Hinegardner in the translation of his daily Latin assignment.

Interests in foreign languages are cultivated in Latin and Spanish classes.

Latin students probe into the past with the study of Caesar and Ovid while Spanish pupils learn the art of conversation.

Through the study of alien tongues the English with which we struggle becomes noticeably easier.

Señor Baca directs his Spanish students as they join in the singing of "Frey Felipe," a Spanish round.

Cooking, a very educational part of taking home economics.

That famous old quotation, "The way to a man's heart is thru his stomach," serves as a mythical guide for the girls of the home economics classes.

Sewing and cooking are the two main divisions of their work in home-making, and the girls are adept in filling the hallways of Shawnee with luscious aromas of their efforts in the mastery of cooking.

The valuable techniques taught in the home economics department are required of the modern housewife.

Practical home economics challenges initiative

Sewing provides pleasure and a choice of vocation for these girls.

Art stresses creative ability

Nona Benroth adds the final touch to her oil painting.

Here, in the art department, students are "on their own." Each chooses his or her style of art and works in that area. Possibilities are pottery, art metal, oil painting, sculpturing, poster painting, carving, and outdoor sketching. Many fine works of art are achieved by the talented artists who are in this program; a display case near the art room exhibits the items to the student body.

School events, such as class plays and luncheons, have their decorations and props originate in the art department.

The potter's wheel, a turn-table to shape perfect clay forms, is the chief interest of Ronald Welty.

Musicians' motto—"Practice makes perfect"

Shawnee's fine music departments, vocal and instrumental, give rise to a great variety of melodies which invite all music lovers. In addition to the organized band, orchestra, glee clubs, and A Cappella choir, individual performances of all sorts—be-bop, opera, jazz, barber shop-pers, and the like—make appearances in the Shawnee School life.

Mr. Beckett, vocal music instructor, and Mr. Mills, instrumental maestro are the mainstays in this fine program.

Malvin Warshawsky demonstrates his talent of marimba playing.

Shawnee's students will develop ... in history classes

Max Workman states his viewpoints of a current event during a history panel discussion. Other members of the panel are Gary Goodenow, Suzanne Galvin, and Joe Edwards.

Pointing out a location on the map, Mrs. Guyton instructs this class of world history students.

By studying the history of mankind, one can gain a knowledge of how to cope with situations of the present. Both American and world history are instructed in a manner to stress the "high spots" of the past and to give students the general information exemplified by current events.

to good citizens of tomorrow ...in government classes

During the school year of 1957-1958, government was one of the chief topics of talk in the senior class. American government compares the political science of the United States with other nations of the world. This subject is required for all seniors and is taught by Mr. Hughes. Everything from "the modern uses of paper clips" to "the power of the Supreme Court" is discussed in the government classes of Room 29.

Think! Think! Think! Boy, those government tests were rough!

Mr. Hughes' "words of wisdom" are listened to attentively by a senior government class.

A chemistry experiment, the distillation of petroleum, draws the attention of the entire class.

Frontiers of science are explored

Facilities of an especially well equipped laboratory give the science field at Shawnee a real boost. In both chemistry and physics classes, the students work in teams of two. Each team has a private working booth with the test tubes, thistle tubes, burners, flasks, and chemicals needed to work any experiment.

Ofttimes it is necessary to prepare a gas which has a disagreeable odor or is poisonous. In order to achieve this, the lab has been gifted with "hood," a chamber which enables the students to work with such materials in complete safety.

Electricity is a part of the subject of physics. Mr. Wagner, instructor, demonstrates to Wes Cleaves, Jack Neuman, George Cockran, and Bill Clark, the principles of the electro-sig board.

Commercial classes focus on business principles

A glance into the commercial room shows many students busy at typing, bookkeeping, and dictation.

Second year commercial students are readied for future jobs in business while first yearers gain knowledge in general typewriting.

This phase of the curriculum is very valuable since it makes an easy job of theme copying and homework papers.

Commercial students learn how to use a calculating machine.

Second year typing students study business typewriting.

Students enjoy varied school life

Pamela Daulton "sets up" the pins as Jeanne Shutt is ready to return the bowling ball. Bowling with lightweight pins and ball give the girls of this gym class practice for the real thing.

Mr. Van Meter, Jim Hurlburt, and Dennis Downhower admire Gene Lee's project at a meeting of the newly formed Industrial Arts Club.

Prospective basketball players are O.K.'d in annual physical checkup.

Candid snapshots of Shawnee "Indians"

Outside advice guides us in making "big" decisions

Speaker of the Seventh Annual College Night held at Shawnee, Dr. Ralph McDonald of Bowling Green State University, discusses plans for the evening with Dave Watkins, Bill Clark, Nona Benroth, and Mary Stemen, members of the student committee for the affair, and Mr. Shackelford, guidance counselor.

Construction crew hurries toward completion as football season looms near.

Long awaited stadium becomes reality

Located directly south of the high school is our newly constructed football stadium.

Work was initiated late in August and completed in time for the Spencerville contest, September 20. The all-steel arena, which cost $65,000, seats 1440 fans and is topped off by a heated press box.

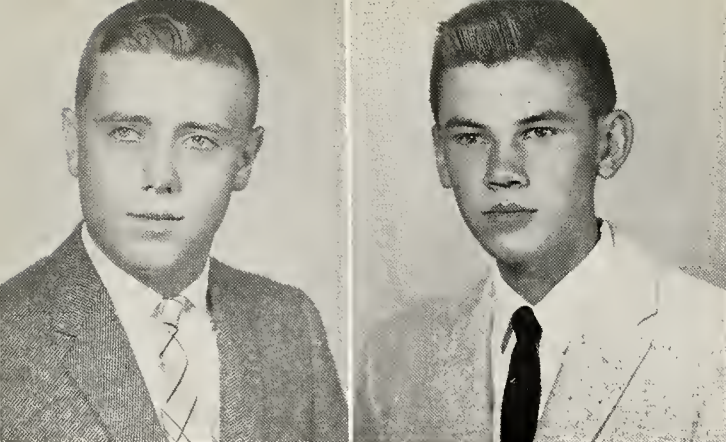

The spacious stadium serves as a fitting location for Indian grid battles.

Success is the

Remember those days when we seniors were underclassmen?

Commencement exercises on May 22 ended another cycle in the lives of the students of Shawnee Senior High School's class of '58. The seniors now looked back over their four memorable high school years with mixed emotions of pride and regret.

Class dues, along with the most entertaining Junior class comedy, "Mr. Barry's Etchings," made possible the colorful junior-senior prom of '57, "Moonlight and Roses." The even more successful senior class play financed many of the projects and activities of the 122 seniors.

Having ranked high scholastically and having been participants in many worthwhile activities—clubs, dramatics, music, sports, and others—this senior class will long be remembered as one which gave many contributions to its beloved Shawnee.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Don Baxter, Vice President;
Ron Bell, President; Sue Van
Meter, Treasurer; Judie Stin-er, Secretary.

The junior class of 1958 was well known for its calendar of events.

The class acted as host at the junior-senior prom, which was financed by the dramatic presentation of the delightful comedy, "Very Untruly Yours," and by the efforts of the many juniors who helped to "clean-up" after the annual school carnival.

In December the long awaited thrill of receiving class rings was experienced by the proud new owners.

Throughout the '57-'58 school year, the juniors, working as a unit, strove for leadership in class spirit, school activities, and other social affairs. Success was the junior class's goal, and they achieved it well.

Setting a new record at Shawnee for number, the sophomore class, made up of over 185 eager, hard-working students, made an impression equal to their size by participating in school organizations, sports, and activities.

Reserve sports teams were filled with sophomore boys; the girls of this class were willing and ready to be the leaders in the Girls' Athletic Association and Y-Teens; and all were learning to accept responsibility by taking active parts in other clubs.

Shawnee's freshmen accept new challenges

"Being a freshman is surely different" was a typical statement from the average first year student in high school. Changing classes, new and different faculty members, more homework, less spare time—all of these items greeted the freshman students at Shawnee.

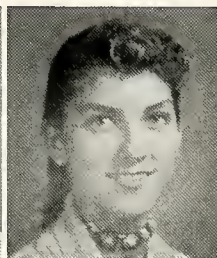

Some of the frosh adapted to the new environment rapidly; for others it took quite a while; but, before the school year was long under way, every freshman had become a part of the life of Shawnee High.

re qualities of Shawnee's faculty

A faculty whose interests are many and varied guides our student body through high school and encourages us into higher education.

Shawnee teachers create an atmosphere for study and learning and are always prepared to answer any questions asked of them. Their friendliness and sincerity have helped many of our number over difficult hurdles.

Composed of nineteen men and nine women who boast thirteen masters' degrees, they convey their varied knowledge to Shawnee's students in an interesting and unique manner.

We are all proud to have as our faculty such well liked and well known teachers.

1957 homecoming . .

Bad weather, in the form of snow, rain, and sleet, is a reminder of the November 8, 1957, Shawnee homecoming. Traditional pre-game ceremonies were hampered by the driving wind and snow; but, except for the weather, the first homecoming in the new football stadium was a gala affair.

Queen Jackie Eicher was crowned by the senior class president, Jim Steiner; and, after being presented with a floral bouquet in behalf of the varsity football squad, queen Jackie and her attendants were escorted to their reserved places among the other half-frozen football fans to watch the Indians edge Columbus Grove, 14 to 6.

Immediately following the game, the Student Senate opened the doors to the very decorative dance; and students, parents, faculty members, and grads found a welcome escape from the weather.

first in new football stadium

Due to the muddy condition of the field, the crowning ceremonies took place in front of the bleachers.

Two former queens braved the weather to attend their Alma Mater's homecoming—Betty Miller '53 and Janice Diehl '55.

Honored by being chosen to represent their classes, the four lovely carnival queen candidates with their handsome escorts passed through the congested halls and were showered with confetti. This was only the beginning of a long, exciting, fast-moving evening for the candidates and the climax came later when the actual "crowning" of the queen was performed.

Each class earned money for its own representative, by bake sales, car washes, raffles, and many other means; and the candidate who received the most support became the '57 carnival queen. The lucky girl this year was the charming sophomore, Lynette Ulrey.

Mr. Knacht, Shawnee's principal, adds the final touch, the crown.

Tended by the faculty, the jot-em-down store sold everything from beans to apple-butter.

'57 carnival was a lively affair

For the first time, the main show of the annual Shawnee Carnival was held in the spacious senior high school gymnasium. The rest of the carnival took place, as before, in the junior high school and garage. The buildings were alive and jumping as people attended the various side shows, as representatives of the queen candidates ballyhooed for their choice, and as the young at heart joined in the spirit of carnival merrymaking.

During the main show, the three musical organizations—girls' glee, boys' glee, and mixed chorus furnished a variety of songs. Side splitting jokes were provided by the interlocutor, Wesley Cleaves, and the five endmen, "Crazy legs" Stedke, "Bartholomew" Brooks, "Hollywood" Hile, "Elwood" Neuman, and Layton "the great."

Special acts, which were created by the students themselves, also added to the well presented '57 minstrel. The grand-slam finale, "Alabama Bound," ended the Shawnee Carnival for another year.

After the main show, endmen John Stedke, Larry Brooks, and Jim Hile strike a typical pose.

"It's a good thing these bars are between you and me."

The junior class of '57-'58 presented the very entertaining play, "Very Untruly Yours," a comedy in three acts written by Tom Taggart.

Don Baxter, a likable young man, played a double life. By day he was a professor, and by night an author of "Love Secrets Serial."

In order to evade his fiancée, Sue Van Meter, and to get away from the constant chatter of her mother, Linda Garrison, he went to jail to finish his latest serial.

How he accomplished this was shown in a rapid chain of humorous events. The production was an all-around success and "very truly" enjoyed by all.

"He would be much more comfortable up here."

Student government at Shawnee is made a reality by twenty-two Senate members, selected from grades nine through twelve. Each Senate member is representative of his or her grade, yet all Senators strive for the best at Shawnee.

Problems of students, faculty members, and school administrators were freely discussed and usually solved at Student Senate's bi-monthly meetings. Social-wise, the Student Senate sponsored after-game dances during the football and basketball seasons, organized homecoming ceremonies, and guided visitors at the school's open house.

Shawnee's '57-'58 Student Senate did a praiseworthy job by creating an atmosphere of friendly relations among students and teachers.

Machines rattle, people yell, staplers bang . . . strange sounds emerge from the Chief room as Shawnee's mimeographed newspaper goes to press each month. The Chief is written, edited, and published by Shawnee students under direction of faculty advisers Florence Gorman, Paul Hughes, and Carl Hutchens.

An "all-time first" was initiated when an edition was given to students on the opening day of school.

The primary purposes of the Chief are to inform, entertain, and educate its readers. It strives to promote better relationship, develop self-expression, and foster school spirit.

memories of headlines, deadlines, and work

Sharon Landfair, business editor, and Miss Gorman, business adviser.

After many strenuous hours of complex development, the Quilna went to press. To our business staff, the Quilna was a challenge of salesmanship. Not only were there annuals to be sold, but also countless advertisements and individual pictures. Meeting this challenge took a great deal of work, but it was fun!

To the editorial staff, time seemed to pass swiftly and deadline after deadline loomed ahead in the near future. We did the planning of the 1958 Quilna and we're proud of it. We hope that you enjoy your annual as much as we did making it for you.

Dave Watkins and Georgia Hittepole, business staff members, and Esther Faccenda, junior apprentice, add the final touches to a portion of the advertisement section of the Quilna.

Making a re-check of advertisers, Mary Stemen, Ray Sarakaitis, and Wes Cleaves, members of the business staff, are in search of any omissions.

Girls' Y-Teens . . . a club of high ideals

To promote fellowship among the girls and to provide an opportunity to know and understand each other better is the main objective of the Shawnee Y-Teen Club.

Many of the programs for Y-Teen meetings included panel discussions, and the girls combined with Hi-Y to hear a panel discuss "Teenagers."

The special annual event of the organization was the enticing Christmas formal dance, "Silver Bells."

Each year four senior Y-Teen girls are sent as delegates to New York in order to gain a better understanding of the functions and purpose of the United Nations. Selected this year were Barb Hall, Sharon Landfair, Georgia Hittepole, and Jackie Eicher.

Beta Upsilon and Beta Pi, Shawnee's two Hi-Y clubs, are composed of boys from grades nine through eleven. The motivation behind the clubs is the creation of Christian character and the Bible stands as the guide for all members in their actions. Hi-Y's many social and civic events throughout the year included several dances, a hayride, and a fund raising party for the March of Dimes. Cake raffles, held at each home basketball game, provided a means of fund raising for the two clubs.

F.H.A. furthers interest in home economics

"To promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking"—this is one of the purposes of the Future Homemakers of America. These girls work for a better understanding of homemaking and family life.

In the fall, the F.H.A. girls sponsored a combination hayride and wiener roast, and at Christmas they combined forces with the F.F.A. club to have a joyful caroling party. In order to support these festivities, the girls sold mums for the homecoming football game and candied apples at the school carnival.

Awards were presented to the deserving homemakers at the annual spring F.H.A. and F.F.A. banquet. Near the end of the year the members had an opportunity to associate and exchange ideas with the Bath High School FHA club.

Band entertains with music and marching

Under the patient, able instruction of Mr. Mills, director, and Judie Stiner, the drum majorette, the band skillfully performed at the majority of the football games.

Many hours of strenuous practice go into the entertaining half-time show of the band. Music to memorize! Formations to learn! Signals to master!

Besides marching on the gridiron and at parades, the band presented a colorful spring concert and participated in the district contest. Not only did its members work as a unit but they also received honors and praise as soloists and in ensembles.

From the marching band there developed another musical organization, boys' band, which played at the carnival and other school events.

Director Mills leads the band through one of many fifth period practices.

Steady stream of incoming books keeps Phyllis Davidson, Jeanne Shutt, and Joyce Wilson busy.

Learning the complex functions of a modern library was the goal of these boys and girls. They gained valuable knowledge and experience in book classification and numbering. Mrs. Bright's job as head librarian was made pleasant and easier by these helpful students.

Industrial Arts Club

The purpose of this club is to provide a workshop and organization to encourage hobbies. Arden Ross and Loren Van Meter, industrial arts instructors, served as advisers.

A unit of the Junior Engineering Technical Society was organized as a subsidiary of the Industrial Arts Club. Students who plan engineering careers are members.

Mr. Ross helped Jim Brackney and other young craftsmen to construct model cars to enter in the Fisher Body Contest.

Mu Epsilon Pi

Organized late in the year, this club is comprised of all boys and girls who have a keen interest in science and advanced mathematics. The facilities of the chemistry lab and the math room are available for use by the members.

Mr. Wagner and Mr. Roeder, serving as advisers, assisted students who were planning projects for the annual science fair at Bowling Green State University.

ARDEN ROSS, adviser
RICKY BISS, president

Through the efforts of the stage crew, the scenery, as well as the sound and lighting effects, were provided for our many productions and assemblies throughout the year. The student body can congratulate these boys who gave their valuable time to provide the many and varied moods which add so much to a stage presentation.

Members of stage crew head for catwalks to operate lights.

Projectionists aid in audio-visual instruction

If one were to enter the visual education room any period of the day in search of films, projector, screen, record player, or tape recorder, he would find a projectionist ready to distribute the needed equipment and if necessary, to operate the machines himself.

Mr. Blauvelt, the group's adviser, instructed the members in the use and care of the visual education equipment.

Shawnee varsity has successful gridiron season

After playing Delphos St. Johns to a 0-0 tie in the annual Lima Olympia and taking a solid thumping from Sidney, the Shawnee football squad improved noticeably, ending the season with a 6 won, 2 lost, 1 tied record and a runner-up award in the Western Buckeye League.

Recovering nicely from the Sidney encounter, the Indians inaugurated their new stadium by rolling up a one-sided 44-0 victory over a confused Spencerville eleven. After posting wins over Bellefontaine and Celina, the Bucks were set for the St. Mary tilt, which many thought was the game of the year for Shawnee. Ten-point favorites, St. Marys was held scoreless by Shawnee as were the hometowners. The Indians then had clear sailing until they clashed head-on with defending W.B.L. champ, Van Wert. The game resembled a rout in the first quarter, but S.H.S. settled down in the latter part of the game and lost in a closer contest than the 25 to 7 score indicated.

John Stedke, elected captin by his teammates, performed his duties faithfully until he received an injury in the Celina contest. After Stedke's injury, Joe Thompson took over the duties of the captaincy.

Each year Shawnee High School takes one night to honor the fathers of the football players. The '57 Dads' Night was a home game with Wapakoneta on Oct. 24. It was a chilly night, but the dads bundled themselves up well and proudly cheered their boys to a 20 to 0 victory over Wapak.

ALL-WESTERN BUCKEYE LEAGUE SELECTIONS—Standing: John Woods, Larry Lewis, Wendell Coleman. Kneeling: Joe Thompson and Bill Light.

Shawnee's 1957 football squad was well stocked with outstanding individual players. Five senior gridders were selected for the all-Western Buckeye League starting eleven either on defense or offense, or both, while others received honorable mention. Bill Light, lanky 6' 1" senior, selected for both all-league teams, as offensive end and as defensive halfback, became the first in Shawnee's history to accomplish such a feat.

Joe Thompson was chosen for one of the defensive linebacker positions; Larry Lewis, offensive tackle; Wendell Coleman, offensive center; and John Woods, defensive end.

Receiving positions on the second team were John Stedke as fullback and Larry Brooks, offensive guard.

warded to eight of cage crew

Bill Light pulls off a rebound against Lima as Woods, Stedke, and Tecklenberg anxiously await the outcome.

Shawnee's varsity basketball squad seesawed through the season, finally coming up with an 8 won, 8 lost record; however, the Indians bettered this in Western Buckeye League play, finishing in a tie for third place with a 4-3 record. Under new head coach, Jack Freitas, the cage crew displayed well-balanced teamwork, with several players scoring consistently, instead of the usual one or two.

The Braves won four of their first six games before starting a four-game skid at the hands of Lima, Coldwater, Kenton, and Elida. After this the team won four of the last six contests. This includes the class AA Sectional tournament game, in which Shawnee, after coming from behind several times, lost out to Lima Central Catholic in the final minute of play, 50 to 43.

John Stedke speeds past a Lima Spartan defender en route to two points.

Managers, Spencer Robinson, Jon Rex, and Steve Neu, gather 'round the "whirlpool," a therapy machine which is the latest addition to the Shawnee Athletic Department.

All eyes turn toward John Woods, as he shoots a typical jump shot.

Varsity action on and off the court

"The pause that refreshes." Shawnee players catch their breath as Coach Freitas explains strategy during a time out.

John Stedke, surrounded by Bath's defense, attempts a shot.

Shawnee's 1957-58 reserve basketball squad had an exceptionally good year, posting wins over twelve opponents and losing to only five. Coach Blauvelt was so well stocked with athletes of high calibre that he didn't try to make decisions as to whom to play. He alternated a group of sophomores with five juniors at the beginning of the season and only toward the end of the campaign did he use primarily five or six players.

As with the varsity, no one or two cagers carried the burden; instead, as each had "his night," the players shared scoring honors.

Highlights of the season were the Reserve Tournament at Kenton, in which the Indians finished third, and the 28 to 23 win over Wapakoneta to round out the season.

The freshman team, although having a very poor year in the won-lost column, consoled themselves in the fact that they gained valuable experience. The Frosh ended the season with a 1-11 record, their 'only victory coming against Bluffton, their fifth opponent, 50 to 35, in a hard-played contest at the loser's gymnasium. Coach Snider's boys' main trouble throughout the season seemed to be their inability to handle the ball. They lost many scoring opportunities by way of bad passes, double dribbles, steps, etc.

Shawnee's Cross Country team ended the season with a good record, beating the Lima junior varsity twice and Defiance once, while losing to Lima's varsity and finishing 11th in the District at Bowling Green.

Five harriers ran their way to the Century Club. Three of these, Dean Gallup, Homer Griffin, and Glenn Fisher, were admitted for the first time, while the other two, Dick Cassie and Bob Decker, were members of the club last year.

One cross country letterman will be graduated; the other three will be returning for the '58 season.

Now in its second season at Shawnee, the trampoline team held tryouts early in the year; the coaches, Miss Reinhardt and Mr. Snider, selected nineteen trampolinists for the squad.

Long and strenuous practice, sometimes up to four nights a week, proved to give the tramp team members the needed opportunity to work up their agile routines.

The "happy bouncers," as they are sometimes called, were the ones who presented the snappy halftime shows at the home basketball games.

COACH REINHARDT

Each year the Girls' Athletic Association basketball captains choose a group of girls to represent Shawnee as a girls' basketball team, with Miss Reinhardt as the coach. This year 24 girl cagers were chosen, 12 to represent the varsity and 12 representing the junior varsity; each team consisted of six guards and six forwards. The girls held their practices before G.A.A. meetings and on Saturdays, and played several area teams during the short season.

Will you “come in and stay awhile”?

The '58 Quilna staff congratulates the Quilna staff of 1957 (editor Dave Weber and adviser Mrs. Waltz) for the excellent “A” rating from the National School Yearbook Association.

As the 1958 graduates of Shawnee Senior High School make their final exit from a fine educational building and from the pages of this yearbook, they invite YOU, Mr. John Q. Public, to take a glance at the Shawnee “way.” The preceding pictures of this Quilna give a tiny glimpse of the whole huge picture of Shawnee’s school life.

In direct contrast to our annual’s theme, “Come in and stay awhile,” we, the class of '58, are leaving. But, we were at Shawnee and we were a part of the Shawnee “way.” For this we are both proud and thankful.

To the students who will be returning for another school year, we seniors would like to give this advice—work hard, have fun, and set your goals high.

And to you . . . , again we extend a welcome. We came and we saw. Will you?

Class of 1958
